

In the usually quiet city of Avalonia, where nothing much ever happened, an unusual event unfolded. The sky crackled with energy, showering the unsuspecting children of Elmwood Primary School with shimmering sparks of power. Within days, news spread of ordinary children exhibiting extraordinary abilities. Amelia, a quiet bookworm, found herself able to manipulate the elements with a flick of her wrist. Ethan, the joker, discovered his ability to bend reality, creating incredible illusions that captivated his friends. Together, they formed the Guardians of Avalonia, a superhero team determined to protect their city... but then there was one more kid whose name was Goku. They made fun of him because they thought that he had no power but they were wrong. He had the most powerful power that they have ever seen. He had a mix of all of the powers.

All the other kids were so jolos that they didn't talk to him. In Fact they didn't even look at him.

10 years later he had no friends. The next day they started to look at him and make fun of him. This went on for another week. Goku had unof.

He got so mad he made a big beam of light to the sky and then people came. It was Gojo and Goku black from another dimension. Goku was studied he didn't know what he had done. Goku looked at Goku black. They looked the same and then Gojo made a big beam and blasted it at Goku. then Goku black and Gojo went to Goku and asked if he would want to join them. Goku said yes because he wanted blood and revenge.

They got ready to destroy. They started to blast at all the buildings. When they were done they flew back up and went to destroy more. After all of the destruction they were the most powerful in the world.

They were so happy BUT then they stabbed Goku. But from all of that he was able to learn his powers. He got so much power that he beamed 2 times and killed both of them.

But that was not good enough for him so he went to more and more dimensions and took their most powerful people in their place.

Inevitably he had a whole army of powerful men.

But then one day it looked like a normal day until a big lightning strike struck the ground making a big hole in the clouds. They were conversing but they saw a big angel come out and told him to stop but Goku did not listen to him and told him to go away. The angel got so mad that tried to kill him and his army. It was a big fight and took a long time. In the end Goku combined all of his power and took down the angel. He went home and lived a good rest of his life.
